

Message From Head of Department

I express my thank you and entire team for the amazing accomplishment of having Agricultural journal published as Seventh Edition of the journal "AGRINEER" offering my sincere congratulations. As the head of the agricultural engineering department, I am incredibly proud of your fantastic achievement.

You have made a major contribution to the field of agricultural sciences as a consequence of your persistence, hard work, and devotion. Your research publication not only demonstrates the breadth of your knowledge but shows the department's dedication to supporting the best agricultural research possible.

I'd want to express on behalf of the entire department how grateful we are for your outstanding job. Your achievement is evidence of the high caliber of instruction and guidance given by our respected teachers. Once more, please accept my heartfelt congratulations, and may this publication signal the start of an amazing scientific journey for you and your team.

I hope all of your future initiatives are fruitful and prosperous.
